

Unhappy

How an admin acts isn't always obvious, so it is important, that you don't judge too quickly.

Kicking/banning/muting

We have certain rules about whether something is allowed or not. Due to lack of time an admin got to decide it can happen that players aren't treated equally. If you play unfair or are mean you should not complain. Instead you could take it as a hint and become a better person.

Not kicking

As we administrate we often abort votes if we doubt it. This sometimes causes conflicts which might be the reason that you got sent here to read this. The main directive of an admin is to protect those who play fair. Punishing those who play unfair is second. Therefore if we doubt the reason of a vote or are unsure about it, we usually abort it. This is to gain some time to judge by ourselves. Thereby we achieve that wrong votes don't pass with the cost that some bad guys aren't kicked. We rather want some unfair players playing than the fair players to be kicked from the server. By wrongly kicking players the community suffers and keeps fair players away from the servers, which would be tragic.

The team

The team is quite big, see <http://zcatch.teevision.eu/admins.pdf>. Since we all do it voluntarily and there are 9 servers with thousands of players to administrate, it is very hard to keep the servers clean. If you want to help, you can apply, see the pdf above.

Penalties may be adjusted to the discretion of a team member and the severity of the offense. Also not listed offenses are punished and introduced into the server rules.

I would like to still complain
